Summary

As a web developer at freelancing platforms. since January 2021, I have contributed to the design, development, and maintenance of various web applications and websites for clients in different industries. I have applied my skills in web maintenance, engineering, and development, as well as my knowledge of software engineering principles and practices, to deliver high-quality and user-friendly solutions. I am currently pursuing a bachelor's degree in software engineering from Sukkur IBA University, where I am learning the latest technologies and methodologies in the field. I am passionate about creating innovative and impactful web products that solve real-world problems and enhance user experience. I am also eager to collaborate with other professionals and learn from their feedback and insights. My goal is to continuously improve my web development skills and expand my domain expertise.
